Simon Tang Joins Datamax·O'Neil as Vice President Asia-Pacific Region

Orlando, Florida – September 23, 2008 – Datamax·O'Neil, a subsidiary of Dover Corporation (NYSE: DOV), today announced the appointment of Simon Tang to the position of vice president of the Asia-Pacific region. Mr. Tang will be responsible for leading the company's market growth throughout the region.

"I am delighted to welcome Simon to our team and am confident that his unique and extensive experience within the Auto ID industry will help us grow and expand our business in the Asia-Pacific marketplace," said Mark Bjerkestrand, chief operating officer of Datamax·O'Neil. "Further, Simon is a key addition to our Senior Management team and as such will make contributions to our global success."

Mr. Tang originally served as General Manager, ASPAC, for Datamax in the mid-1990s. He has also served as Managing Director for Sato Asia Pacific, and as General Manager, ASPAC, at Zebra Technologies. Peter Tan, who has served the Asia-Pacific region for Datamax·O'Neil for nearly 14 years, will continue to perform a strategic role in key accounts and partnerships.

"I'm pleased to be back with the company and am excited about the opportunities for Datamax·O'Neil in this dynamic region," Simon said. "I look forward to growing our existing partnerships and building new strategic relationships and alliances that will drive growth and build revenue."
